

Parking defended

Don't look for a change in Drayton Valley's downtown parking policy.

Commenting on an editorial in last week's Western Review that suggested downtown business was suffering because of the town's two-hour parking policy and the accompanying $15 ticket, Mayor Bob Mayhew says, "There was no end to the delegations that appeared before council pushing for the enforcement of a parking policy. The only way we could solve the problem was to enforce the policy."

The editorial stated that an out-of-town shopper had received a $15 ticket and in a letter to council stated they wouldn't shop in Drayton Valley again. The mayor says that's not right. "The shopper said they wouldn't shop in downtown Drayton Valley," he explained.

Mayhew went on to say, "It's unfortunate that the odd customer is going to get caught. We've now got a parking policy downtown and we're getting hell both ways."

The editorial suggested that the employer could force his employees to park elsewhere downtown, leaving parking space for customers. But the mayor says the merchants couldn't control this and they looked to council to enforce.

At their last council meeting councillors moved to have the bylaw enforcement officer chalk tires and hand out tickets three days a week. That was their original intention, but due to a number of complaints over the Christmas holidays, the policy was cut back to one day a week.

2500 use pool

The Park Valley Pool is enjoying immense popularity.

Twenty-five hundred people used the facility during its first week of operation, Feb. 10-17.

Everything is going really well so far, said pool manager Charlene Jenkins. "We've had no problems and we're getting some good comments from people."

Though regitlation for the pool's programs won't begin until Feb. 22, Jenkins said there has been a good response from people inquiring about them.

Passes are popular and selling very well, she added.

Snow hurts fish derby

Despite a near perfect day, the fourth annual Wildwood Fish Derby attracted only a handful of winter fishermen Sunday.

Postponed a week because of the extremely cold weather, the Lions' sponsored event garnered only 18 weigh-ins. Last year, more than 150 people took part in the derby held at Chip Lake Park.

"One of the reasons for the smaller turnout was people couldn't drive out onto the lake" due to snow conditions, the Wildwood Lions' secretary-treasurer Nester Senchyna, said. "Normally we have 60 or 70 paid entries and out of that we'll have 30 or 40 or up to 50 weigh-ins."

"(Sunday) we only had about 18 weigh in. So I think conditions on the lake were really bad."

Regardless, Senchyna doesn't think the Lions will stop holding the derby.

"We usually get a good turnout so one bad year isn't going to make us back off," he said.

Randy Herman's catch of two pounds, seven ounces won the seniors' largest fish category while Pearl Benson earned honorable mention.

In the senior's hidden weight, Jim Brouse won with a one pound, four ounce catch and honorable mention went to Albert Monty and Bruce Benson.

In the junior category, the largest fish went to Dwayne Veitch at two pounds, nine ounces and the hidden weight to Pat Peron at one pound, one ounce.

For Lions' members only, Charles Tait won with a one pound, two ounce catch.

County aims to hold the line

COUNTY BUDGET

By Phil Courterelle

Parkland County Council is working towards another hold-the-line budget in 1985 and major changes in the county's assessment guidelines could help that situation come about.

Councillors and administrators spent their first full day on the 1985 budget Thursday in Stony Plain and have scheduled at least two more full days in March. Reeve Maurice McCullagh said.

Although the county is still working with preliminary figures, it's expected the budget will be tabled in late March or April.

"We're agonizing through it," McCullagh said Thursday. "We're hoping to come in with a hold-the-line budget like last year. This is what we're working on now and trying not to cut back services too much."

One of the things that may enable the county to keep taxes close to last year's levels will be the completion and introduction of a new general assessment which could boost the county's total possible tax assessment by more than 650 per cent.

According to county administrator Otto Schuster the new guidelines could increase the total possible assessment from last year's $149 million to near $1 billion for 1985.

The changes were necessary so assessments reflect current market values, he said.

The new general assessment was begun in 1981 and follows the Alberta Assessment Manual. The last update was in 1978 for farm land and 1974 for industrial, commercial and residential property and were based on 1977 market values.

A significant change over the last assessment is "bringing farm values up in the neighborhood of seven or eight times what they were," McCullagh said.

Farmland accounts for between four and six per cent of assessable property.

The assessment should also have a downward affect on the county's mill rates.

"There's no doubt about it" the new guidelines will decrease the mill rates, the county's chief assessor, Ken King, said but added how much the rates will drop is still unknown.

The county's current mill rates are: occupied residential 113 mills; farmland and vacant residential 130 mills; commercial 173 mills and electric, power and pipeline assessment 194 mills.

"I can't see too much of a change (in tax rates)," King said. "Some may pay more and some may pay less, we just don't know yet."

Valentine's Day event successful

Charity auction nets $8,618

This year's Drayton Valley Association for the Developmentally Handicapped (DVADH) charity auction, held Feb. 14, was a success by all accounts.

The $8,618 raised was more than $800 over last year's total, an estimated 350 people attended and more than 600 items were donated for the cause.

Two unique items this year were a two-minute shopping spree at Block's Food Store and a chauffeur-driven vehicle ride from home to the Twin Dragons restaurant and the Westwinds Lounge and then home again.

The shopping spree went for $135 and the chauffeur ride for $65.

The biggest selling item was a trip to Las Vegas going for $860. RCMP belt buckles and hats sold well, also, said DVADH executive director Ron Szala.

To mark Valentine's Day, long-stemmed roses were added to randomly picked items. "I think everyone really enjoyed that."

Szala was pleased with the support the community gave to the auction. "We had excellent participation from the district this year."

"A large group of businesses and individuals have adopted us and go ahead and contact us about donations."

"We do canvass the area as well and we're finding that more and more of the same people are supporting us."

"We're getting a larger and larger core group," he said.

Bidding from the crowd was lively at times, Szala added.

"Some of the items sold over value a bit and the new items went for an average of 80 per cent of value."

Though the auction lasted from 7 p.m. to 1 a.m., "there were still about 80 to 90 people left at the end."

The efforts of a lot of people made the charity auction a success, he said. "We couldn't do it without Wendy (Sekura) and the boys and all the other volunteers."

The money raised will go towards a park behind the DVADH's bottle depot.

Ventures start fund raiser

The 1st Drayton Valley Venture Company will start a major fund-raiser this week in order to raise funds to send six people to the Canadian scout jamboree this summer.

The four ventures, one scout and advisor Paul Spurrell will be selling 'bargain books' door-to-door and in the Drayton Valley business community in the weeks ahead. The books contain 35 coupons, all from Drayton Valley business, with a value of $750.

It is the hope of Spurrell and his group to raise about $4,000 from the bargain book fund-raiser.

It will take about $4,200 to send the six to the Canadian scout jamboree July 3-12 in Guelph, Ontario.

The group has already paid $1,750 in registration fees, with $1,000 of that coming from funds already raised. During Christmas, the ventures raised $513 from a tree promotion.

The 1st Drayton Valley Venture Company will hold their annual banquet on Wednesday, Feb. 27 at 8:30 p.m. in the Scout Hall. One of the highlights of the evening will be a presentation to Spurrell from the governor-general's office for his work in ventures.

Winter sands

What was once a cool, clear pond now looks like endless white sands. But the changing seasons haven't affected the look of these perennial cat-tails.

Kinsmen week

Projects keep D.V. club busy

If you check around your community, you'll undoubtedly find projects made possible by service clubs.

One service club that has left its mark in many communities is the Kinsmen.

In Drayton Valley, this is Kinsmen Week.

While the Drayton Valley Kinsmen are only three-years-old (accepting their charter on April 28, 1982), they have already made a significant contribution to the town.

In the past two years the Drayton Valley Kinsmen have returned more than $20,000 back to the town. They brought in the RCMP musical ride and the 1983 oil show was their idea. Two ladies' nights have been held and tickets are now on sale for their second annual men's night.

This summer will see a BMX track become a reality in Drayton Valley thanks to the efforts of the Kinsmen. They are also looking at a skating/curling facility.

We salute the Drayton Valley Kinsmen Club, and Kinsmen Clubs everywhere, for their contributions.

Readers letters, good or bad, are welcome

A very deserving 'tip of the hat' to auctioneer Wendy Sekura, family and associates who donated their time to the 12th annual charity auction held last Thursday night.

The Western Review welcomes letters to the editor.

We had three outstanding letters last issue on such subjects as basketball, the downtown median and swimming.

Several people have called our reporters, voicing either their thanks or anger, at articles that have appeared in the paper, or an issue in the area. Instead of phoning, write us a letter.

Your thoughts are most welcome.

Some residents of Violet Grove are seeking action from the county on the dog problem. One resident talks of dogs coming up to their front door and making themselves at home.

Editor's Notes

Hopefully, we'll see some action on this.

It was nice to see the Drayton Valley RCMP out last week near the Eldorado School.

With spring just around the corner, motorists can expect to see both the RCMP and the county police out more.

Mae Tryon is the new Western Review correspondent in the Berrymoor area. You can call your news into Mae at 542-5792.

And, starting with the Feb. 27 issue, district agriculturist Doug Walkey of Drayton Valley will be writing a column in The Western Review.

In case you were wondering what's happening with the Makin pulp and paper project ... the latest deadline is Feb. 28 for the government's report on the developer's finances.

Here's a different, but apparently effective, way of selling a home.

After three months of listing his house with no offers, a Lloydminster man did something different. The ad was changed to include the sale of the house and a trip for two to Hawaii — airfare and accommodations. His phone hasn't stopped ringing in two weeks.

New arena advocates should re-direct efforts

By Phil Courterelle

Depending on who you talk to, Park Valley Pool can be either recreational coup or a financial waste.

Some recreation activists are claiming victory while others are still complaining the town could have had a multi-purpose centre encompassing swimming, an arena and curling rink and other such amenities instead of just an expensive, basically one-activity facility.

While some of those activists are content with the $1.4 million pool — an impressive and so far immensely popular facility — others are turning their attention towards a different battle ground — a new arena.

Comment

Privately, they've held meetings, gathered support and are at least considering a feasibility study to determine the costs of such a scheme. Their reasoning is simple: the present state of the Centennial Civic Arena is unable to handle the current demands of its user groups — the dressing rooms are too small and not enough; the public washrooms are inconveniently located; the sound system is too old; the boards are falling over and so on.

While these complaints are indeed valid and warrant immediate attention by the town, they hardly justify condemning the 18-year-old facility and building a new one. That's wishful thinking.

The people involved could better direct their talents by establishing a committee made up of private and public appointees (councillors or recreation board members) to evaluate the Centennial Civic Arena, its problems and users' requirements before charging ahead with possibly grandiose and expensive propositions. Town council, which, in all likelihood, will be responsible for a new facility, isn't going to fancy dumping a building it's poured hundreds of thousands of the taxpayer's dollars into for maintenance, upkeep and plant purchases just because a group of local citizens think it's "a dump."

While the arena may need repairs, it's certainly worth keeping.

Perhaps the town's arena can be expanded, upgraded to meet present and future requirements and perhaps it can't. The point is all the alternatives must be explored before any group decides on any approach.

If it's scheduling and ice time these people are concerned with, a new building won't solve anything if the old one's shut down. There would still be 24 hours in a day and the problems would remain, only in a nicer building. Nor can the town justify two complete arenas, the numbers and costs simply don't relate.

If there's one thing these people and their ideas do illustrate, however, it is the immediacy of the problems and the need to rectify them. While council can argue with some validity that heavy capital expenditures at this time would financially strap the town, it must also realize that costs never go down and if it shelves repairs for too long, the situation will deteriorate and eventually cost more. The low pool tenders were a result of tough economic times and were the exception, not the rule.

These people are trying to improve a town that, until recently, lacked any significant recreational facilities for children or adults and their efforts are commendable. But they would certainly make better inroads by gaining the co-operation and help of those in charge rather than their animosity.

A newer and bigger facility is not the best or first answer to problems at the arena, at this point, communication and forethought are.

All the children at Eldorado school participated in this year's Winter Fun Day Olympics Feb. 16.

Events like the walrus pull, tug-o-war, beanbag throw, and unwrapping gum with mittens on were all big hits with the youngsters.

The windy day hampered activities a bit, but hot chocolate took the chills out of everyone.

The purpose of the fun day is to give the kids some outdoor activity and a mid-winter break, said principal Howard Pearson.

"It's fun competition and good for morale."

'Buster Galloway' a hit

Prairie play earns Wildwood ovation

By Phil Courterelle

Lyle Victor Albert's 'The Prairie Church of Buster Galloway' has attracted a great deal of attention in recent months for both good and bad reasons.

The 'good' reasons are simple: Albert has written a comical, yet honest, portrayal of five rural characters whose lives are in some cases, wholly guided by the unseen hand of Buster Galloway, while others are only briefly and unknowingly affected. It is a story of revenge, of friendship, of hate and love and basically the human complexities that make life interesting.

Mac, a seasoned grain elevator manager has spun a bizarre and complex Catch 22 situation for himself that started 40 years ago. His 'friend' Buster Galloway, used $1,000 of hard earned summer-money to purchase a farm without Mac's consent or partnership. As a result, Mac considers half the Galloway farm his.

To earn his share, Mac sells grain he's siphoned off farmers' loads — "It ain't stolen if they didn't know it was there in the first place," he rationalises — on Buster's grain permit and after 34 years of elevator service, has acquired a huge 'savings' account.

But as the highly successful Galloway operation expands, so does Mac's claim and confusion and he keeps siphoning off grain until his scheme is uncovered by his friend and patron Carl.

Unfortunately, the bad reasons surrounding the play's attention stem from the same source as the good ones.

It seems some real life entities similarly portrayed in the play have taken offence at the main character, Mac, and his underhandedness in dealing with the patron's grain measurements. The ill-feelings toward Albert's play stem largely from its television production in January where, as one of the play's production staff described, the comedy was removed to fit the half-hour time slot.

'Buster Galloway' is not a sweeping epic on Alberta's rural life nor does it make any new or bold statements regarding the residents of farming communities.

It, like most plays, is about people. Some of them you may already know: Willie (Wally McSween) the retired farmer-cum-gossip who's got a story for everything; Kenny (Robert Winslow) the young upstart who's more concerned with having a good time than getting to work on time; Carl (Wendell Smith) the quintessential gotta-get-things done farmer and of course there's Mac (Frank C. Turner).

If 'Buster Galloway' offended the rural mentality, it certainly didn't show during the standing ovation at Wildwood Community Hall Thursday night. The Northern Light Theatre production was sponsored by the Wildwood Complex Association and part of a two-month tour of Alberta and British Columbia.

Teachers learn the facts on sexual abuse

By Carol Dietrich

Sexual abuse has been always been a problem. We aren't hearing about it now because there is more happening.

People are simply more comfortable talking about it.

Teachers at St. Anthony school were presented the facts Feb. 19 by Joanne Kamins from the Edmonton Sexual Assault Centre.

"Sexual assault is changing from being the big secret it once was.

"In working with victims, it's important for them to get rid of the guilt and admit they were a victim, so they can deal with it."

The occurrence of sexual abuse is higher than a lot of people realise, she said. "Recent studies show that 25 per cent of girls and 10 per cent of boys will be sexually abused before the age of 18.

"And you do not have to be raped to be sexually assaulted," she added.

"It's hard to know how much child sexual abuse there is. In our judicial system, an offender has a 99 per cent chance of getting off free.

"There are very few characters like Clifford Olsen. Seventy-five to 80 per cent of children are assaulted by someone they know.

"And parents don't tell them about the people most likely to offend them — people they know and trust."

Sexual offenders don't have to use violence to abuse children, Kamins said. "They have the trust and love of the child.

"So if daddy says 'All daddys do this', how is a child to know any better."

The sexual abuse doesn't happen to only one child, she said. "It usually happens to all of the children in a family."

Some people are confused about the offender's motives. "He does not do it for sexual gratification. He does it to fulfill a need for power.

"And he divides the family — mother from child and children from each other.

"The abuse is not isolated. It happens night after night, year after year, for an average of six or seven years.

"Girls as young as nine, 10 and 11 years can end up pregnant. For reasons we're not sure of, young incest victims seem to menstruate earlier."

Sometimes telling someone can result in repercussions for the victim, she said.

"Nobody wants to believe. They want to pretend that the problem will go away.

"And the child may be blamed by the family when the offender is taken away."

The offender was often a victim himself, Kamins added. "And he will begin assaulting the child at the same age that he was assaulted."

"We recommend a short period of incarceration and mandatory therapy. Natural fathers are more likely to go through it successfully."

And while all this is going on, where is the mother? "Sometimes they do know what is going on and if they are financially able they will move, and other times when they know they simply can't deal with it or are unable to support themselves and the children by themselves.

"Mothers are in a tough position."

Educators have to watch behavior

Direct physical evidence of child sexual abuse rarely exists for teachers to detect, said Joanne Kamins of the Edmonton Sexual Assault Centre.

The major area that educators have to be aware of is behavior. "Teachers can take note of regressive behavior or a dramatic behavior change. A shy child may become aggressive or an outgoing child may become withdrawn.

"Every child who changes behavior is not necessarily sexually abused, but it is an indicator of stress."

Another symptom is sexual behavior or use of words that a young child is unlikely to know. "Children are not sexual. That behavior is learned."

Self-destructive behavior in teens may be a sign of long-term sexual abuse. "It's when they are teenagers that children realize what has been really going on.

"Attempted suicides are common."

It is important to know how to handle a suspected case of sexual abuse, Kamins said. "As a school, you should have a policy or procedure to follow."

She presented a CARE (Child Abuse Research and Education) kit to the St. Anthony teachers. "It talks about good and bad touches and that everyone's body belongs to themselves."

"And it tells children that sometimes it's okay to say 'No' and what to do if someone tries to touch them in a way they don't like."

Principal Ron Williams will present the possibility of purchasing the kit to the St. Anthony school board at its next meeting Feb. 21.

Tiggers' Debbie Manwaring and Kathy Riesburg fight for a rebound Sunday.

Bowlers earn provincial berth

Eight local youth bowlers will head to Red Deer March 10 to compete in provincial bowling finals and the right to compete in a national championship in April.

James Thompson and Brian Borley finished first in their single boys' categories while Shannon Ross finished first in the single girl category during provincial playoffs in Edson. The team of Quinn Goretzky, Ron Ness, David Franciszen, David Geddes and Martin Scott won the team event.

The bantam and junior level bowlers competed in the second step of the Four-Steps-to-Stardom Sunday after finishing the first step — the local house leagues — last month.

In house league, Ross bowled a 152 average and Thompson 159.

Borley finished with a 163 average while the Goretzky team finished with an average of 133.

If the bowlers are successful at the third step to stardom, they'll advance to the national playoffs in Burnaby, British Columbia in April.

Stettler wins championship

Tiggers falter in final game

By Frank Ryan

The Drayton Valley Tiggers and Stettler have a habit of meeting in the 'big' ladies' basketball games.

And, for the second straight meeting, Stettler came out on top.

Last year in the provincials the Tiggers downed Stettler in a round robin game, only to lose by two points to their Central Alberta rivals in the final.

At the Tiggers' weekend tournament the locals edged Stettler 53-49 in round robin action, then saw history repeat itself as Stettler won the final 58-49.

Lorna Lents led Stettler to the ladies' championship with a 25-point performance followed by Wanda Lanevich with 23 points. Debbie Manwaring hit for 19 points for the Tiggers with hard working Lynette Taal adding 14 points. All four players were named to the tournament all-star team.

The Tiggers went undefeated in the round robin with a 60-43 win over Whitecourt in their opener and a 47-46 squeaker over the Edmonton Queens. Meanwhile, Stettler downed the Queens 45-34 and whipped Whitecourt 89-30.

Taal had a 17-point effort against Whitecourt with Manwaring adding 15 and Debbie Olson 12. Mary Kay and Kathy Riesburg had 10 points each in the Tiggers' win over Stettler the first time out with Taal adding nine. Once again it was Taal, the former University of Lethbridge star, who led the Tiggers against the Queens with 17 points.

But it may have been the 47-46 win against the Queens two hours earlier that led to the Tiggers downfall in the final against Stettler.

Not taking anything away from the defending provincial champs from Stettler, Tiggers' coach Parry Mohn said, "Our girls showed some definite signs of fatigue. Besides, the girls worked awful hard as tournament hosts and that took a lot away from their game."

The Tiggers will get another shot at Stettler when they travel to the Central Alberta community for the ladies' basketball provincials March 23-24.

"We have full intentions of meeting Stettler in the provincials and coming home with a win," Mohn summed up.

Edson dominates men's tournament

Edson went undefeated on the weekend to win the Drayton Valley men's basketball tournament.

In four games Edson outscored their opposition 333 to 214.

Both Drayton Valley and Whitecourt finished with identical 1-3 records but the locals got the runner-up nod with a better points for and against total.

Edson, provincial finalists last year, defeated Whitecourt 89-45 and Drayton Valley 68-59 in games Saturday afternoon. With three players in their lineup over six-foot-six, Edson rolled to an 89-51 decision over Whitecourt and 86-59 over Drayton Valley Sunday.

Drayton Valley split in their two games with Whitecourt, losing 77-60 Saturday and then came back Sunday with a 71-66 decision.

Bob Thompson and Keith Ebbs had 16 points each for Edson in their final game against Drayton Valley. Glen Kinney led the locals with a 14-point effort followed by Gary Quinton with 11 and Kim Trafion with 10.

Quinton led Drayton Valley in their 71-66 win over Whitecourt with 21 points, followed by Lee Hodgson with 18 and Stan Schamuhn with 14. It was a come-from-behind effort for the locals as they trailed 40-32 at the half.

Edson are moving up to intermediate 'B' this year and travel to Hanna at the end of March for the provincials.

Stan Schamuhn scored 14 points against Whitecourt.

Cougars' Young scores 107

Strathcona Christian won the tournament but Breton's Wayne Young attracted most of the attention.

The five-foot, 10 inch Young chalked up an amazing 107 points in just three games in helping Breton to third place in their own weekend tournament.

Young saved his best effort for the playoff with a 46-point effort against Strathcona's Meadowlark of Edmonton as the Breton squad rolled to a 85-72 decision.

In earlier tournament games, Young scored 38 points and Cliff Ellis added 22 in an 81-72 win over Hay Lakes and in their first game Friday night against Strathcona, Young hit for 33 in the 100-59 loss.

Strathcona breezed through the two-day tourney undefeated. After knocking off host Breton Friday, Strathcona defeated Hay Lakes 92-55 to advance to the championship game, which resulted in a 91-42 win over Nitron.

Nitron emerged out of the tournament 'B' pool after finishing the preliminary round with a 1-1 record. Nitron lost 53-52 to Meadowlark in their first game but rebounded for a 69-55 win over the Onoway. In one of the best games, Onoway edged Meadowlark 56-54 with John Rubin leading the winners with 22 points.

SPORTSBEAT

by Frank Ryan

You might say I'm disappointed with many of the local sports teams.

We've made it pretty clear since arriving at The Western Review that we wanted to write up all the sports in the area.

The only team that has really accepted our offer is the Drayton Valley Junior 'B' Blades. Others have talked to me about bringing in their scorersheets, but nothing has materialised.

Now that many teams are in the playoffs it would be nice to hear how they are doing. But, we won't hold our breath.

We can only hope summertime sports teams will be more co-operative.

The Alberta Amateur Hockey Association has suspended Drayton Valley Blades' defenseman Dwayne Parenteau for the balance of the 1984-85 season.

Parenteau hasn't played since Jan. 18 when he became involved with the game officials.

The official announcement on the suspension comes from AAA executive director Ken Craig.

The Mayerthorpe golf club is looking forward to the summer. When the weather permits, the golf club will install artificial grass greens.

Installation and purchase of the grass greens were made possible through a provincial grant.

Several meetings have been held in Drayton Valley, exploring the possibility of a second ice facility.

Many of those involved are not happy with the ice terms or the condition of the Drayton Valley Arena.

In order to find out if there's a need, a group of interested people have approached the town for permission to conduct a feasibility study. The study will be done by volunteers and will not cost the Town of Drayton Valley any money.

While some people don't feel there's a need for another indoor ice facility, why not let the group proceed? They won't be happy until all the facts are known.

The Evergreen Shooting Club met recently to discuss plans for a range. Some members would like to see a return to their range along the North Saskatchewan river while some members will look at joining forces with the club at Lodgepole.

It appears a lot of red tape stands in front of the club if they wish to get their development permit back from the County of Leduc for the range along the river. The club has been without a range for more than a year.

Their best bet might be amalgamation with the Lodgepole club.

High school

The Deanna Sluchinski rink has advanced to the provincial playdowns for the Alberta High School Athletic Association championships March 2-3.

Sluchinski and teammates Tenna Howarth, Shelly Fiddler and Jody Urchysyn will be the third Frank Maddock High School rink to attend the finals — this year at Grand Centre — since 1981.

After losing the first game during zone playdowns in Hinton last weekend, the rink came through the B event to win the North Central High School Championship.

Blades continue losing ways

A shortage of players hurt the Drayton Valley Blades on the weekend as they lost two Central Alberta Junior 'B' Hockey League games.

With just 10 players dressed, the Blades lost 10-4 in a Sunday afternoon contest at Rimbey after dropping a home ice 9-4 decision to Hobbema last Friday night.

Tonight (Wednesday), the Blades play Rimbey in a game to be played in Eckville. On Friday night Rocky Mountain House Rockets are in Drayton Valley. The Blades have one other league game, a make-up with Barrhead as their season comes to a close.

The two weekend defeats leaves the Blades with nine wins and 28 defeats. Simon Kelly, the Blades' coach in their last six games (2-4) will miss tonight's game as he is working out of town. Ed Bacon is expected to handle the team.

"We held Rimbey down for two periods Sunday. But the guys were tired as many were triple-shifted," said Kelly.

Rimbey held period leads of 3-2 and 4-3 before outscoring the short-handed Blades 6-1 in the final period.

Kevin Hutchinson, Darren Tuftin, Paul Stables and Keith Bills replied for the Blades while Chad Allen and Dean Pirie had two goals each for Rimbey.

Penalties hurt the Blades in their 9-4 loss to Hobbema as the visitors connected with four power play goals. Hobbema led 1-0 after the opening period and 4-2 after 40 minutes.

"We totally out-played and out-skated Hobbema until we started taking penalties like you wouldn't believe," said a discouraged Kelly.

He added, "We had opportunities galore, posts, shots over the net. I couldn't believe it."

Tuftin, who was the game's third star with a goal and an assist, Sheldon Dunham and Roger Gulach replied for the Blades.

The Blades lost the services of captain Dean Mulgrew in the first period with a charleyhorse. He also missed the Rimbey game.

Kelly says it's doubtful the Blades will play a consolation playoff series with last place Rocky Mountain House, Hinton, Rimbey, Barrhead and Hobbema, in that order of finish, are headed for the league playoffs.

Rangers advance to second round

The Getzinger Rangers have advanced to the second round of provincial pee wee 'B' hockey playoffs following an 8-3 win over Spruce Grove.

It was the team's second win in the two-game total point series. Getzingers won in Spruce Grove Feb. 9 13-4.

The local minor hockey team plays host to Morinville Saturday in the opening game of the second round and then travels to Morinville for the final.

Against Spruce Grove, Getzingers fell to a 3-1 first-period deficit before taking control of the game in second. Daylen Peanmuller tied the game at the 3:18 mark of the period off an assist from Chris Hutchinson.

Hutchinson scored the go-ahead goal with less than a minute remaining and added two more in the third period. Centre Randy Kelso and defencemen Jason Neudorf added the team's other scores.

Goalender Dean McDowell stopped 10 shots after 60 minutes while Spruce Grove's D. Higgins faced 43 from Getzingers.

Rangers face Morinville at Centennial Civic Arena Saturday at 4 p.m.

In other action, the pee wees dropped Evansburg 9-3 in an exhibition game Sunday at Evansburg.

30th annual show nears

Over 100 kids in ice show

The 30th annual Drayton Valley Figure Skating Club Ice Show will be held March 9 in conjunction with the Chamber of Commerce Winter Carnival.

"The chamber decided to plan the carnival on the same weekend as our ice show," said Gloria Kallis, ice show chairman.

About 115 children, aged four to 20 years will take part in the show. "The members of the club have a choice as to whether or not they will participate in the ice show," she said. "Most of them do."

This year's ice show theme is "Go for Gold," a tribute to athletes and the line numbers will represent different sports.

Performance times are 1:30 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. and the carnival queens will be presented during intermission of each performance and the winner announced at the later one.

Guy Taylor, Susan McGregor, Ann-Margaret Baker, Tammy Thoresen, Tracy Kallis, Pat-Jo Pankewicz and Pam McDowell will perform solos during the show.

It takes a lot of time to plan the ice show, said Kallis. "We had to start in November and the last two months before the show are really hectic."

And volunteers play a big part in the show's success. "Mothers are responsible for the costumes."

"We couldn't have the show without volunteers."

Carolyn Eckert planned the ice show program.

Trio confirmed for dinner

What do local rodeo veteran Clayton Hines, Breton arm wrestler Rod Barrett and former Edmonton Oilers Bill Flett have in common?

Aside from being highly proficient in their line of athletic endeavors, the three will be at the first-ever sports banquet sponsored by local scout and guide troops.

Banquet organizers have secured Hines, Barrett, Flett and possibly an Edmonton Eskimo and two former Eskimo players to attend the event scheduled for March 16 at Elks Hall.

The special guests are expected to make a short speech on their various sports.

Tickets go on sale Feb. 16 with adults priced at $12 and under 16-years-old $8.

Proceeds from the banquet — where at least one autographed hockey stick from the Edmonton Oilers and possibly an autographed Eskimo football will be on the auction block — go towards building a scout/guide camp near Carwood.

The land belongs to Mobil Oil and has been used as a picnic area in the past. The Drayton Valley scouts and guides are hoping to build a permanent camp facility and kitchen on the land to use for outdoor activities.

It is the first combined fund-raising effort the scouts and guides have undertaken since the construction of the Scout Hall.

Six workshops planned

Program developed for teens

From now to the end of April, a new staff member will be seen around the Parkland County building in Drayton Valley.

Her name is Lori Perks and she has been hired under the priority employment program (PEP), a provincial government grant.

From Three Hills, the University of Calgary graduate is in charge of setting up a leadership program for teens aged 13 to 18 years in this area.

To date, six workshops with the themes arts and crafts, drama, music, games, programming and leadership and outdoor education have been confirmed. "But we haven't finalized the dates yet," Perks said.

The workshops will give the teens experience and background in leadership and will enhance their employment potential, she added.

Those 16 to 18-year-olds taking the program would be eligible to apply for jobs with the county, most particularly leadership of the summer recreation and parks programs for children.

"Everyone in the program would get a certificate listing the workshops they completed."

Perks plans to speak to local junior and senior high students to recruit them for the program.

"I hope to get to the schools in March and to get the program started in April."

Perks is pleased to be able to set up the leadership program. "It is a good opportunity and will give me good contacts."

County offers fitness course

A new fitness program is being made available to all students in Parkland County this spring.

Called "Parkland Participates", the program offers information about health and fitness, a look at the heart, how exercise affects the heart, and how proper eating, food, smoking and stress can affect fitness, said Lorraine Glass, co-ordinator of the program.

Both theory and practical application of the information are involved.

"We sent letters out to all schools in the county and have gotten a good response from both urban and rural areas."

Tomahawk school and Elementary "B", St. Anthony and Eldorado schools in Drayton Valley are the only local schools that have indicated an interest in the program, designed for students in Grades 1 to 12.

"We've gotten more response from elementary schools but some junior and senior high schools will be taking part, too," she said.

"The purpose of the program is to inform people about what fitness can do for you and explain why."

The program runs from February to mid-April.

Everything available at handicraft show

Amateur or longtime handicraft enthusiasts have a chance to display their work at the 14th annual Parkland Handicraft Show March 12-27 in Stony Plain.

Eighty-four different categories are open to people wishing to show their items.

"There's everything from crocheting, knitting, basket making, glass blowing to paper tole and sculpture," said Randy Strocki, assistant recreation director at Stony Plain.

"It is very convenient for Drayton Valley people to take part because entries will be accepted in the Parkland County office there March 5-6 and I will be coming to pick them up and take them to Stony Plain."

Each year some new category is added to the show. "Each year we find people doing something new."

"We don't like to leave anyone out," he said.

One of the new categories this year has the theme 'Young and Alive in '85', recognizing that this year is the year of the youth.

In the past, only a few youngsters were involved in the show, with the addition of this category it is hoped that more youths will get involved, he said.

"Last year we had about 130 people take part in the handicraft show with about 500 entries."

People from all over the county take part and more and more people from the Drayton Valley area are getting involved Strocki said.

The show will be held in the Multicultural Centre, Lene Holgersen Gallery, with the grand opening March 12. And Terry Fenton, director of the Edmonton Art Gallery, will be the guest speaker.

Man injured

A Wapella, Saskatchewan man was sent to Drayton Valley hospital with major injuries Feb. 16 when the half-ton truck he was driving collided with a woodskidder about 11½ miles northeast of Cynthia.

At about 8 a.m. Steven J. Flanagan lost control of his vehicle on an icy road and the collision occurred, said Cpl. Chris Lee.

"We are continuing our investigation."

Lee said there were a number of minor accidents over the weekend, but no injuries.

Summer hail storm effects crops

No hay for sale in this area

There's a real demand for hay in the Drayton Valley area.

"We average about six calls per day from people looking to buy hay," says Doug Walkey, district agriculturist in Drayton Valley.

"Most people have enough hay for themselves, but there's no hay for sale around here," he adds.

The district agriculturist says Morinville is the closest market with some hay also available in the Peace Country.

Two of the major reasons for the shortage in this area, according to Walkey, was a hail storm that hit the area last June and hurt hay crops, plus the fact the area has been fairly dry for the last three years.

The district agriculturist says his reports show round bales have been selling between $50 and $60 with the square bales going for $2 to $3.

He doesn't expect the situation to get any worse.

If anyone wants to keep tabs on the hay situation, the agricultural office in Drayton Valley has a market bulletin that is updated from offices around the province.

Tourist group meets Saturday

The Evergreen Tourist Association will hold their annual meeting and dinner in Drayton Valley's Ceasars Inn this Saturday.

The meeting, which will feature the election of officers, is scheduled for 5 p.m. followed by dinner and a tour of the new Park Valley swimming pool.

Piet Steen, Evergreen Tourist Association president for the past two years, is letting his name stand for another term. But, he says, "It will be my last."

Frank Ryan, editor of The Western Review, is letting his name stand for a position on the tourist executive, while Dennis Woodley, recreation director for the Town of Drayton Valley, is running for a director's position.

The Evergreen Tourist Association, at a directors' meeting last Wednesday night in Edson, decided to join the Yellowhead Highway Association and at the same time invite them to join their group.

The tourist association will be busy in the weeks ahead making up an events schedule. They're working on 1986 with two major attractions in the zone — the Alberta Winter Games will be hosted by Edson in February with the Alberta Senior Games in Drayton Valley in mid-July.

Breton UCW holding weekly clothing sale

By Shelli Carson
698-2290

Breton General Hospital announced the birth of its New Year's baby, a boy, born Feb. 1 and weighing 7 lbs. 4 oz. and 19 inches long. Proud parents are Zigmond and Ursula Springer. The baby received a bonnet and sweater set and spoon set from the Breton Hospital Ladies' Auxiliary; as well as a layette put together by the RNA Association containing many gifts; and gift certificates from various merchants, local contractors and business people from Breton and the surrounding area.

Sympathy is extended to the Baumann and Hansen families on the loss of Juliet and David's son, Bradley, who died in hospital Jan. 25. Funeral services were held Jan. 31 at the Stony Plain United Church.

Breton Curling Club hosted its annual ladies' bonspiel Jan. 21 to Feb. 3 with 28 rinks taking part. A wine and cheese party was held Friday night. A new record of 25 rinks attended the chicken supper Saturday evening and were well entertained by the skis and poems presented by the Elaine Young rink.

First event winners were the Neil's Shine Shop rink, skippered by Deb Collyer with third, Debbie Van Emmer; second, Connie Krowchuk and lead Gloria Shapka. Second in the first event was won by the Liz Long rink; third went to the Cindy Vovk rink and fourth to the Vi Westling rink.

First in the second event was the Bernice Johnson rink with third, Gladys Maciborsky; second, Debbie Johnson and lead Bernice Murray. Second place went to the Janice Bolet rink; third to the Mary Kohlman rink and fourth place went to the Norma Dohman rink.

Third event winners were the Sherry Luft rink with third, Cathy Reich; second, Leila Hotti and lead, Deb Manwaring. Second place went to the Leona Linde team; third place to the Judy Meade rink and fourth place to the Elaine Young rink.

Several Breton teams attended the Buck Lake open bonspiel. The Jim Dunn foursome won the third event; the Harold Hanson rink took fourth in the first event; the Ted Gray rink took second in the second event; and the Roy Stout rink placed fourth in the second event.

Annie Horvath received her '300' pin at Thoraby bowling lanes Jan. 25 and Doreen Ellis received her '250' pin the same day. Merle Borman, secretary for the Monday afternoon bowling league, was presented with a birthday cake in appreciation of her work in keeping statistics for the league.

Breton UCW are having a secondhand clothing sale in the United Church basement every Friday from 2 to 4 p.m. They have a good selection of ladies' and men's wear and a smaller selection of children's wear.

The annual meeting and election of officers for the Breton UCW was held Jan. 10 at the home of Janet Polischuck. The officers from the previous year agreed to remain for another year. They are: president, Lorna Carson; secretary, Val Dean; vice-pres., Kay Stout; and treasurer, Muriel Hanson.

Breton playschool is hoping to hold a skate-athon Feb. 23, weather permitting. Participants will find sponsors who will pay each skater a specific amount per lap. Proceeds will be used to help cover operating expenses for the playschool and prizes will be given for most pledges collected and most laps completed in a specific age group.

The Breton Elementary School has now completed 53 days of their 100-day project. On day 50 there was an assembly for the whole school. A large thermometer on the gym wall shows the amount of money the school has raised. To date, $845 has been collected for the Northern Alberta Children's Hospital Foundation.

Each day the children spend a few moments filling in their classroom 100 daybooks. In doing so, they become more aware of the geography of the world, names of books and authors and science concepts. Math problems and spelling words are analyzed, objects and people are measured and new words are discussed. Each classroom is working at their level, thus each book is unique.

Pool debutante burned

The Barrhead Kinsmen, a driving force behind the town's swimming pool built in 1977, celebrated last week with the burning of the pool's $65,000 debutante which signified completion of their payments.

Looking at amalgamation

The towns of Spruce Grove and Stony Plain are looking at amalgamation. Stony Plain Mayor Reg Kotch would like to see the two towns merge into one community in 1986. The mayor says, "I really think we have the potential, through much accelerated growth, both industrial and residential, to become another Red Deer."

Wage freeze

About half of the administrators and supervisors employed with the City of Red Deer will have their salaries frozen while the rest are entitled to raises as a result of a recently completed job evaluation in the Central Alberta centre.

Chamber revived

After two years of sagging attendance, the Chamber of Commerce in Rimbey is showing signs of new life. After going through the past two years with about a dozen members, the chamber roles now show 70 members.

Coal layoffs

Due to declining coal sales, Luscar Stereo Ltd. has announced staff layoffs at their Coal Valley mine site near Barrhead.

FINANCING ALBERTA BUSINESS

A Family Business Expands

Wedin's. When you shop in the Ponoka/Central Alberta area you know the name. Eight years ago

Murray Wedin decided to expand that reputation. The plan? A building expansion from 3,000 to 16,000 square feet.

Murray's concept matched Ponoka's need for a good-sized department store with men's, ladies' and children's clothes, shoes and household products. He presented his need for financing to conventional lenders and, ultimately, to AOC.

AOC reviewed Murray's plans and their potential. It was an opportunity worthy of financial support.

The new store opened in 1978. Today Wedin's is recognized as one

"People... are fantastic"

McGee excited over response

"People of this community are just fantastic," says Betty McGee, chairperson for Drayton Valley's Park Valley inter-club swimming pool committee.

In her position as chairperson of the inter-club committee, McGee worked with many local groups in their fund-raising efforts for the $1.4 million pool which opened recently.

"The pool fund-raising went beyond my expectations," McGee says.

McGee would like to see the inter-club committee stay active. "Something else might come up," she says.

One addition to the Park Valley pool, she would like to see is a facility room.

Besides her behind-the-scenes work on the pool, McGee has been a workhorse in the community.

Citizen of the Week

She served one term on council, spent 19 years on the separate school board, is very active with the Legion Ladies' Auxiliary and the legion, is a former president of the Catholic Women's League and is a member of the Drayton Valley Entertainers.

MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS

INSPECTOR'S REPORT

Mayor and Council
Village of Breton
Box #80
Breton, Alberta
T0C 0P0

Date: May 22, 1984
Municipality: Village of Breton
File No. BM63

The Department of Municipal Affairs Act requires that an inspection of each municipality be conducted annually and a report be made to the Chief Executive Officer of the municipality. The following comments are submitted as a result of an inspection conducted on the above noted date.

A review of the 1983 financial statement and related records would indicate that the Village enjoys a good financial standing with a satisfactory cash flow. Council are encouraged to maintain this trend.

The municipality's administrative records, books, ledgers and accounting systems were examined and found to be in very good order. Mrs. Strand's office systems and personal job standards far exceed those found in comparable municipalities. Her level of service constitutes a true asset to the Village.

This report must be presented at the annual meeting of the Village if one is held in 1985, or if no annual meeting is held before April 30, this report shall be published by that date in an issue of a newspaper circulated within the municipality.

Also, your written acknowledgement of this Report is requested.

Kinsmen 'night' funds for community van

By Frank Ryan

These are busy times for the Drayton Valley Kinsmen Club.

The club, which is two months shy of its third anniversary, is celebrating Kinsmen Week, part of a Canada-wide event.

But there won't be much time for celebrating.

The Drayton Valley Kinsmen, who received their charter April 28, 1982, are busy finalizing plans for their second annual men's night on Wednesday, March 6.

The Kinsmen hope to raise between $9,000 and $10,000 from men's night which will assist them in the purchase of a 15-passenger community van complete with a power lift.

Although purchase of that van is only in the thinking stages, president Terry Drader says,

"We've already had calls from people wanting to book the van."

A seafood and steak meal, comedy entertainment and $3,000 in prizes highlight men's night. Only 250 tickets will be sold and the Kinsmen hope for a repeat of last year, when the event was a sellout.

When the weather permits, the Kinsmen plan to proceed with plans for a BMX track in Drayton Valley. Much of the ground work on this project was done last summer.

The Kinsmen are also looking at a skating/curling facility for Drayton Valley.

Alex Blais, Dave Banks, Bert Siegers and Gary Willeff played a key role three years ago in getting the Drayton Valley Kinsmen organized. Stony Plain was the sponsoring club and gave a lot of support to the Drayton Valley group.

Since that day almost three years ago, the Kinsmen have made a significant contribution to community life in Drayton Valley.

They held two ladies' nights and in March will add their second men's night, brought the RCMP musical ride to town and played a major role in the 1983 oil show. In the past two years the Kinsmen turned $20,000 back into the community.

Their biggest project was the Park Valley indoor swimming pool.

"We've already given the pool $5,000 and have another $14,000 in trust," according to Kinsman Blais.

"The money was raised for the pool, but if they don't need it we will spend it elsewhere," Blais added.

Consortium popular

This semester saw another successful registration for the Pembina Educational Consortium.

"We're going to have about 400 students this term," said co-ordinator Joe MacLellan.

"That's a 20 per cent increase over last year."

Registration numbers began picking up momentum last year and it's continued into this year," he said.

"I think it will keep growing and growing. We're encouraged by the number of students."

With the increased numbers, the consortium has added three new upgrading classes. Now there is one in Thorsby and Breton as well as Entwistle and Drayton Valley.

"There is a tremendous need for upgrading," he added. "And there are more enquiries."

"I think it's a combination of the fact that the consortium is getting better known and people are encouraged by the economy to make themselves more marketable."

But that is not the only expanded course. "We are also going to do more oilfield training classes, like hydrogen sulphide lifesaving procedures and blow-out prevention."

"We've formed a liaison group with people in the field and are working on a three-year plan."

"And we are continuing with our business program out of Grant MacEwan Community College and the Athabasca University's bachelor of education degree."

"There will be a broader offering of teleconferencing courses from SAIT."

Women's Institute hears about Arabian Gulf

Members of the Women's Institute of Drayton Valley braved the cold of a Canadian winter to meet at the home of W. Hammerlind to hear Joan Wetski tell of the warm climate of Dubai in the Emirate States, on the Arabian Gulf, where temperatures rise as high as 120°F, humidity is 100 per cent and sand storms are a regular occurrence. A flash flood in January can bring havoc to the city as the land is below sea level. It gets so hot that blocks of ice are put in the swimming pools to cool the water.

Joan told us this country has beautiful roads with heavy traffic, but most people ride in a taxi. Vegetation is green and abundant, the water being re-cycled. Discovery of oil brought great riches to the land. Pearl diving and fishing are two other industries.

The small state is ruled by the Arab Royal Family with no elections held. The predominant religion is Islam with Christian churches being tolerated.

There is very little crime as punishment is severe. Joan felt the working class was well cared for.

Joan worked as a costume designer in the Hyatt Regency Hotel. The hotel has one large skating rink and two swimming pools. Canadians are given credit for bringing hockey to this state.

The Wetski family lived in Dubai for four years and liked it. Their daughter went to a British school in Dubai. They returned to Drayton Valley two years ago where husband Jerry is employed with Dome Petroleum.

Joan displayed many articles she had brought back from Dubai, including the 'Koran' — the holy book of the Moslems. She modelled the dress of the men and women.

Members present also displayed items they had brought back from places in the world they had visited.

The Drayton Women's Institute will hold their annual Easter ham raffle in March. Watch for the raffle cards set up in stores in town. As in previous years, six lucky people will win Easter hams valued at $15.

Teachers looking forward to convention

This year's Teachers' Convention, planned for Feb. 28 and Mar. 1, has several keynote speakers. Laurier LaPierre, an educator and journalist, Arthur Holmes, Executive Director of the Edmonton City Centre Church Corporation, and consultant Dr. Tim Theis will be on hand.

Barbara Coloroso, another consultant will attend the convention once again.

"Coloroso is a dynamic speaker and is always in demand," said Howard Pearson, Eldorado school principal.

"I think overall the convention is going to be good," he said.

"It should go very well," said Frank Maddock High School principal Richie Woods. "There are always a lot of excellent speakers."

"About 5000 to 6000 teachers attend," he added.

Firearms charge

A Drayton Valley man was handed a suspended sentence, two years probation and a two-year firearms prohibition in Drayton Valley provincial court Feb. 14.

Dwayne Ewert was found guilty of pointing a firearm as the result of an incident Jan. 3 of this year in which he and his wife were having an argument.

Court heard that as the two were disputing, Ewert grabbed his rifle and pointed it at his wife and that the next day his wife contacted the police to give a statement.

"I expect at this time of the year, the teachers are ready for a break," said Elementary 'B' school principal Elson Keown.

"I'm looking forward to the professional sessions. You could take a maximum of eight sessions in the two days."

"And they have things from field trips to the Space Sciences Centre to computer sessions — everything that is involved in readin', ritin' and 'rithmetic."

"There are enough teachers that they can get some quality speakers."

Ron Williams, principal of St. Anthony school agreed. "They always attract top rate speakers and there is a great variety of topics."

ERCB handles more than inquiries

Public realizes board's function

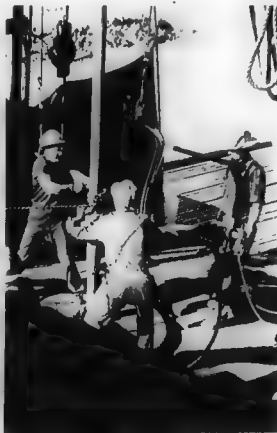

— Photos by Carol Dietrich

Ron Paulson points to Lodgepole on a map filled with pins showing the total number of wells in the Pembina field (including producing and suspended wells and water injection wells).

Paulson is the area supervisor in the Drayton Valley field office.

This reproduction of an office photo shows some roughnecks on a rig platform in Nov. 1984.

By Carol Dietrich

When someone mentions the Energy Resources Conservation Board (ERCB), what's the first thing you think of?

For many people in the Drayton Valley area, the Lodgepole Blowout Inquiry and the ERCB are inseparable terms.

The whole blowout issue brought the provincial crown board a lot of publicity and has increased public awareness of us, said Ron Paulson, area supervisor in Drayton Valley.

"We've seen a noticeable increase in inquiries from the public to this office about domestic water wells, odor concerns, and concerns about new drilling, and producing oil and gas facilities.

"We are required by law to listen to the public's concerns."

Though inquiries are an important part of the ERCB's function, they are only one of a number.

"We have a broad mandate in that we are to see that all energy resources (hydro and electric, coal, oil sands, pipelines, oil and gas) are developed and produced in an orderly manner."

Originally called the Petroleum and Natural Gas Conservation Board, the board began in the late 1950's. Its function underwent a few changes through the years and in 1971 it received its present name.

Today, a chairman, vice chairman and three board members sit at the head of the ERCB in Calgary and govern a total of 14 departments.

The local field (area) office which opened in the late 1950's is a part of the development department and is responsible for licensing, drilling, completing, production, abandonment and oilfield production in the Drayton Valley area.

"We inspect service rigs, drilling rigs, oil batteries, gas plants, oil and gas wells and pipelines as well as look into public complaints and concerns," he said.

"And we ensure accurate measurement of all produced oil and gas."

In charge of a 22,000 square mile area, 80 fields (including the huge Pembina field) fall within the boundaries of the Drayton Valley field office's responsibility.

"Our area stretches west of the fifth meridian to the Alberta - British Columbia border and north from Hoadley - Blackstone to Grande Cache - Mayerthorpe," Paulson said.

In monitoring drilling activity, the office uses numerous maps covered in pins to indicate well locations. And statistics are compiled year after year.

Data for 1984 (from the local office) shows more than 4,000 capable oil wells, 350 capable gas wells, 1547 service wells and more than 1,300 suspended wells.

And last year, there were 524 wells spudded (began producing), close to 400 were cased, 121 were abandoned - open hole and 45 abandoned - cased.

Drilling activity began to increase in October with 33 rigs drilling, and by year end it was up to 46. January of this year saw 55 rigs drilling and an additional 37 locations licensed.

However, by the end of the month only 39 rigs were drilling and on Feb. 4 there were 35 rigs drilling and 38 locations licensed.

"Nineteen-eighty-four was a very good year," Paulson said.

"We're expecting high activity in 1985 but last year's levels will probably not be maintained."

Well, most of the time it wasn't so and one of the best examples of this is the following story.

It was the middle of summer and boy was it hot! The kind of summer found only in Regina — hot and balmy. As usual I was home with mom while dad was at work. When I found myself bored
I would usually take my little orange tractor for a cruise down the carpeted hallway to the elevator, carefully inspecting the area for Indians, making sure they didn't invade my territory and take over my fort.

Today was turning out like all the other days, hot and boring in the room. Just then the phone rang and mom answered it.

"Maybe it was Indians calling to tell us they were going to get us," I thought.

I quickly ran over to the window to check it out.

"Nope, no Indians yet," I reassured myself.
Something caught my eye though, some older boys playing frisbee in shorts with no shirts on. I looked at my clothes — my Batman sweater and jeans.

"That's why I am so hot," I said to myself.
I decided to take them off and go play outside.
After all, I was four now and I can throw a frisbee because I threw one of mom's dishes. It flew good too, until it hit the floor and busted.

Quickly, I ripped my clothes off, stopping at my underwear. I looked outside again.

"Those guys have shorts but they aren't as hot as me in here," I thought.

I hastily removed the white undergarments so
I would get cooler faster.

"Ah, that's better," I said as I stood there outside.

Jumping onto my faithful orange tractor I nakedly drove out into the hall, not forgetting to watch for Indians, though. As I rode down the long carpeted prairie I thought I heard a tribe behind me, yelling and screaming.

Peddling faster I was getting closer to the door of the fort (elevator). I was almost there when I felt a hand grab my shoulder, bringing me and my trusty steed to an abrupt halt.

"Indians!" I thought as I reached for my holster, but there was nothing there, nothing at all!

Slowly I turned around to look the pennmican-breath in his dark, black eyes.

Mom!
"Good, it's only her," I thought. "What a relief!"

She didn't seem to think so though and before
I could tell her where I was going, she picked me off my tractor.

"I am glad you already have your pants off,"
she said.

Before I could ask her why, I felt a sharp pain on my bum as I heard the loud smack echo throughout the hallway.

"Now go to your bedroom and stay there until I say so," she barked at me.

"Gee, I wish it would have been Indians," I thought as I rode back to our apartment.

Grandmother wins $500,000 prize

Monica Hallett sat in the Winners' Lounge at the Western Canada Lottery Foundation explaining that her win of $500,000 on the February 1 Provincial draw was just pure magic.

"You never think it will be you," said the 58-year-old resident of Entwistle. "I watched the television newscasts twice to be sure. When the announcer gave the winning numbers and my ticket matched exactly, it finally sank in! After raising our nine children on the homestead and always having to budget so carefully, now there will be enough money so that my husband Thomas and I will not have to worry any longer."

Hallett, who travelled to Winnipeg with a daughter-in-law, indicated that she will share her windfall with her nine children, eight of whom are married, and her 20 grandchildren. "However, the first thing will be a better house," she stated. "The balance will be carefully invested to provide security. That means so much," concluded the very happy lady.

Niton, Wildwood school construction slated for April

Modernization of the Niton and Wildwood schools is expected to get underway in April or May of this year reported Yellowhead School Division No. 12 secretary-treasurer E. Trathen. With some work done before school is out, the projects' completion dates are for September of 1986.

The bylaw for the Niton modernization is being advertised with the estimated costs of the modernization, including some playground development and refurbishing, 2.4 million dollars.

The Wildwood modernization project has been delayed pending Alberta Education's approval of the plans. Trathen suggested that Wildwood's project would probably follow the Niton project by about a month. The estimated cost on the Wildwood modernization he quoted was around $2 million but would depend on the final plan approved.

The Niton modernization will see the 1960, 53 and 56 sections of the school completely re-done with a partial modernization on the 1980 section. Trathen noted that the department will not support disposing of a building with any use left in it and basically the modernization entails stripping the building down to the frame and completely re-doing it.

Trathen added that the department's philosophy supports modernization over new construction as it hopefully sees an end product as good as a new school at less cost.

New manager has 15 years experience

Hard work is already paying big dividends for Lance Grocco and Drayton Valley's Black Gold Inn.

Grocco, the inn's general manager says, "We had the best January ever since opening seven years ago and February is looking the same."

Eighty per cent of the traffic at the Black Gold Inn is oilfield-related. Many of the crews stay one or two weeks.

To many the Black Gold Inn is home-away-from-home. Most everything they need, from accommodation to meals and entertainment, is under one roof. They are joined by their families on weekends.

"Most of the men are on restricted budgets, so we give them a good breakfast, a box lunch to take out into the field and they come home at night for a good supper," Grocco says.

Grocco is thrilled with their salad bar. "It rivals anything around, here or in the big city," he added.

On weekends, especially Sundays, local and area residents have been taking advantage of the excellent food turned out by the Black Gold Inn kitchen staff.

Grocco, who has 15 years experience in the hotel business, including stops in High Level, Valleyview, Ponoka, St. Albert and the Edmonton Plaza has no regrets about accepting the job in Drayton Valley.

Because his wife and four children are still living in Edmonton, Grocco spends most of his life on the job with a typical day starting at 8 a.m. and ending about midnight. His family is anticipating a move to Drayton Valley when school's out at the end of June.

The long hours don't bother Grocco.

"Because I live and work at the Black Gold, someone is always around to handle problems. Management must be visible so the staff can do their jobs," he says.

When Grocco is catching 40 winks or is away from the hotel matters are left in the capable hands of assistant manager Audrey Schmidt, who has been on staff since day one.

In fact, Grocco feels that the attitude of his staff, that numbers 50, goes a long way toward the tremendous respect the hotel has in the eyes of their customers.

Many compliments are registered with Grocco about their 100 rooms. The lady responsible for this is Rose Williams, executive housekeeper. The inn's general manager says, "You won't find anyone better than Williams in Winnipeg or Chicago."

People

While the Black Gold Inn has experienced a record-breaking January and things look good this month, things are going to get better.

Major renovations are on the drafting table which includes changes to the 100-seat restaurant and the 100-seat tavern, expansion of the front desk, main lobby and manager's office and some changes to the exterior, including a new sign. Some work is already underway in the sauna and whirlpool room.

While he is only into his second month at the Black Gold Inn, Grocco is looking forward to working with groups and associations in Drayton Valley and area. The inn has an excellent meeting room that some groups are already using.

Windy Ash Wednesday, a barometer to future weather?

By Joanne Benger

Feb. 20-22 find us in First Quarter and the fruitful water sign of Pisces.

First Quarter is a time for new beginnings and for buying animals at their cheapest. Pisces is however, a nebulous sign, when facts are hazy and it is almost impossible to tell a good buy from a bad buy.

For this reason, some people think of Pisces as a time of indulgence. Think of fish. There are suckers and there are fish who will bite any bait. We also have the saying, "Drink like a fish." The gullibility and the tendency to go overboard must be fought.

Enjoy the mood of Pisces with escapist activities. Never will you enjoy a novel before the fire more. Movies and plays are great fun. You almost enter the mood of the players and feel on stage yourself.

Watch your diet. It is easy to over-eat now. Pisces favors binges of all sorts so fight your weakness — or you just might float with the tide and over-do it.

Feb. 22-24 find us in the sign of Aries the ram and still in First Quarter. Buy sheep now.

Aries is a time for strong beginnings but weak finishing. Now everyone gets all fired up over the new project but interest will wane with the moon. For your own future security have people give deposits or sign pledges. Otherwise today's fresh starts and new sales will burn out with this sign.

Feb. 25-27 will find us in the earth sign of Taurus and still in First Quarter. Buy cheap cattle now.

Everyone is acquisitive in Taurus. We want earthy success and possessions. We also want to stay with the tried and true.

The wonderful scheme that came to life under Aries is discarded now, replaced with the old fashioned method.

Begin a job or studies that you hope will lead to a secure future. You will have to work hard but you can climb that ladder rung-by-rung if you apply yourself and start now.

Whose lucky week is it?

Scorpio, this is our time to gamble and take chances, for this year, as every year, we speculate best between Feb. 20 and March 30. Feb. 20-27 are luckiest for those born between Oct. 24 and 30.

The number to remember is 8. Use it any way you can, and if you feel you need a partner, choose a water person or an earth person. Waters are Scorpio, Pisces and Cancer. Earth are Capricorn, Taurus and Virgo. Scorpio's perfect mate is a Taurus.

Important days this week

Feb. 20 is Ash Wednesday and if it happens to be a windy day, we will have windy weather throughout Lent until Easter Sunday.

The daffodil, which blooms in Lent, is sometimes called the Lent lily.

Mitchell loves the outdoors

If you're talking to George Mitchell, you're likely being told a fish story.

Or possibly an elk story or a moose story or a goat story.

And those are exactly the stories he told the Breton Fish and Game Association Feb. 8 during their annual awards banquet at the village's community centre.

Augmented by a small sampling from the "several thousand" color slides Mitchell and his wife, Joan, have taken in a lifetime of outdoor pursuits, the former Edmonton policeman entertained the more than 100 people that braved Friday's frigid weather to attend the annual event.

From fly fishing in Alaska to just photographing mountain sheep in one of Alberta's national parks, the Mitchell's have been and continue to be supporters of the great outdoors and are possibly the province's most devoted enthusiasts.

The founder of the Alberta Fishing Guide and parttime lecturer, Mitchell, 67, has as many stories and tidbits as he has slides.

"I enjoy doing it and it (fishing) gives me something to do," he says. "I'm a very active person. If I would've retired and put my feet up, it wouldn't have been for me."

"The mountains are my favorite place, whether we catch any fish or not, it makes no difference."

Mitchell came to the Edson area in 1922, a year after his father migrated to Canada. He joined the Edmonton Police Force after returning from a four-year stint overseas in the 1940s and retired as a superintendent in 1977.

Now, Mitchell and his wife spend the majority of their time simply travelling. He makes a point to attend at least three community Fish and Game Association banquets a year and in past, he's been involved with Hunter Training courses in Stony Plain.

After more than 60 years of hunting and fishing, Mitchell says he is more selective in what he catches and hunts. Unless the fish are larger than he's ever caught before or wanted to eat, he turns them back. With several animal trophies already donning his walls at home, he's content to shoot with a camera.

Currently, Mitchell lives near Carvell, southwest of Edmonton.

Results from the Breton Fish and Game Association's awards night are as follows:

Walleye Pat O'Conner (6.4 pounds)

STARVIEW

By David Gabriel

BUSTING OUT — Lesley Ann Warren, who stars in the NBC miniseries "Evergreen" this week, had to fight for her acting career.

When she was 15, she sneaked out of her New York home and auditioned for the national company of "Bye Bye Birdie." She got the part, but her parents would not permit her to go on the road with the production. "They wanted me to finish high school first," Miss Warren says. While she decided to stay home, she was determined to get into show business and began taking acting lessons. She got her first Broadway role at 15 in "110 in the Shade."

Miss Warren is now starring as a penniless Jewish girl in the six-hour miniseries "Evergreen," airing Feb. 24, 25 and 26 on NBC. It is based on Bella Plain's novel about an immigrant Jewish family. Miss Warren plays a woman torn between the love of her immigrant husband and her secret love for an aristocratic friend.

Lesley Ann Warren, who stars in the NBC miniseries "Evergreen," had to fight for her acting career.

GOING BY THE BOOK — Although the recent adaptation of Ernest Hemingway's "The Sun Also Rises" failed to attract a large audience, NBC is forging ahead with other novels adapted for television. Susan Baerwald, who is in charge of the network's miniseries, says she is now preparing William Faulkner's "The Hamlet" as a four-hour movie called "The Long Hot Summer."

Miss Baerwald is also in the middle of filming an adaptation of Robert Massie's book "Peter the Great," in the Soviet Union. The 10-hour movie stars Maximilian Schell, Omar Sharif and Vanessa Redgrave.

As to the disappointing Hemingway movie, Miss Baerwald says: "The biggest mistake we made was in the choice of material. It did not have a lot of movement and should not have been done in four hours."
